EDITOR LABELS USA AGGRESSOR IN KOREA

Jirair Nayiri

The Security Council has decided to place the US and UN armies under the command of MacArthur, that is, to fly the UN flag beside the US flag. The USSR has accused the US and her satellites of seeking to use the UN as a tool for the realization of their militaristic plans, and of systematically trying to obstruct the efforts of the UN. And because the Soviet Union and China are absent from the international organization as a result of the question of Democratic China's entry into the UN, the Westerners apparently believe that there is nothing to prevent them for making an armed entrance into Korea under the UN flag.

Responsibility for the present situation falls chiefly upon the shoulders of the UN Secretary-General, who not only failed to take the necessary measures against the armed aggression of South Korea and the US, but even sent them a UN flag. US warmongering circles believe that threatening the world with a push-button third world war is the best opportunity to undertake mass production of war weapons, while hoarding the fabled rich resources of the US and making the people suffer under heavy taxes. During the past week, the US Congress voted to begin the production of atom and hydrogen bombs and 24,000 fighter planes.

The important point is not who is nearer to the UN flag, but who is supported by the general opinion of the world. It is not important whose army is the plenipotentiary of the UN Secretary-General, but it is important whose army is struggling for peace, national freedom, independence, and democracy. It is not important who speaks in the name of peace, but it is important who is struggling for peace, security, and national sovereignty. The Soviet Union's stand in the present situation is a shining example for the peace-loving masses, and wins their unflinching sympathy.

It is obvious that the people of North Korea are determined that their country shall be free and united. There is one hopeful point in the present situation: the forces of peace will win because, although they do not fly the UN flag, they have the support of the union of peace-loving forces, and the desire for the belief in a happy future.
